About ISRP

The Indian Society for Radiation Physics (ISRP) was formed with a primary objective of providing a common forum to the Scientists and Engineers working on different basic as well as applied aspects of ionizing radiation. The idea of forming ISRP was first conceived during the National Symposium on Radiation Physics held in Mumbai in November 1970 under the inspiring leadership of the late Dr. A. K. Ganguly. The memorandum formally constituting ISRP was issued in July 1973 and the Society was inaugurated by Late Dr. Raja Ramanna in June 1976. Professionals from national laboratories, universities and institutions of higher education, industry etc., are the members of ISRP. ISRP conducts National Symposium on Radiation Physics once every two years. To strengthen the countrywide spread of knowledge in the field of radiation physics, many chapters of ISRP have since been formed. These include the chapters at Mumbai, Kalpakkam, Patiala, Kolkata, Mysore, Mangalore, Coimbatore, Dharwad and Hyderabad. ISRP (Kalpakkam chapter) has grown since its formation and has about 1300 life members. Under ISRP educational programme, lectures, quiz contests related to radiation physics and its applications are conducted in schools and colleges every year.
